Acceptance of photos will be based on appropriateness, quality, space available, and completeness of information provided. Photographs may be returned to the related author(s), if requested.

General Criteria

The Global Pedagogy Journal needs to receive Pedagogical articles of interest to a broad readership. The effects of the research experience on the development and subsequent endeavors of students are of interest. Articles addressing how to initiate, support, or sustain research are appropriate for this journal. This publication of The Global Pedagogy Journal may not be the appropriate venue for publishing results of undergraduate research. Also, news items or future articles describing funding sources or programs may address specific benefits provided and eligibility requirements, with information about criteria for judging competitive projects when available.

How to Submit

Disciplinary articles should be submitted for review to the appropriate Divisional Editor. Multi-disciplinary and general interest articles, or articles related to the focus of upcoming issues may be submitted to the Coordinating Editor(s). Articles may be submitted initially as hard copies only, double-spaced. Photocopies of corresponding images also may be included.

What to Include

- Double-spaced hard copy of article.
- Captions for photos and figures.
- Personal information,
 - Institutional titles for all authors (for inclusion in Editor's Notes),
 - Biographical Data,
 - Complete mailing and email addresses and faxes for all authors.
- Key words for indexing.

Length of Articles

1000-3500 words should be a general target for the length of the article, but longer or shorter articles may be appropriate for the treatment of certain topics. Hard copy of any photographs or art must be submitted with your article along with accompanying captions. Please identify each person in each photograph.

Media

If your article is accepted for publication, our editors will provide you with instructions for submitting your final set of materials. These should include your electronic files, and any associated photos, art, or electronically stored images. Please, submit manuscripts with minimal formatting. No double-spacing; no paragraph indents; and no hard returns at the end of lines. In general, all formatting needs to be removed from word-processing files before they are composed for this publication. If you need to indicate words in italics, want something in bold, or to format a table, please do so. That is all of the formatting you will need to provide, and we will take care of the rest. But please remember to run an electronic spelling and grammar check, as well as proofreading. Please DO NOT embeds photographs within word processing files, as they cannot be effectively extracted for use in publication. All photos submitted electronically must be at 300-600 dpi resolution and preferably in BitMap, or TIF formats, or as appropriate. Jpegs and other formats that are >300 dpi at the size they will print are also acceptable. Submitted Files will be accepted on:

- CD (PC format), or
- Email to the updated contact at: www.almossawi.org

Compatible Electronic Formats

Generally, all text file formats are acceptable; and Microsoft Word is preferred. Image file formats (EPS, TIF, JPG, GIF) may be submitted. Resolution must be >300 dpi or greater at the size the image is to be used. You may also submit original color or black and white photographs, or line art. Art generated in drawing programs (Illustrator, Freehand, CorelDraw) may be acceptable, but please make sure to include fonts with the file, if applicable.

Address

When submitting manuscripts, authors should supply mailing and e-mail addresses, phone and fax numbers, for potential use by the editorial office and later by the production office. Authors should keep the original copy of the manuscript to guard against a possible loss. An author who submits a manuscript electronically should receive e-mail from the journal office indicating the manuscript number within a few days of submission. If this acknowledgement is not received within a few days, send e-mail to the updated web contact, inquiring about manuscripts.
